Final Project Submission Instructions

Each project will be carefully evaluated based on the Judging Criteria outlined below. The submission is complete only when all elements in the checklist are submitted in the requested formats. Please follow the instructions carefully; projects with missing or partial elements will be automatically disqualified. Any submissions received after the deadline (Oct 11th, 2026 @ 12:00PM) will be automatically disqualified from judging.

Judging Criteria:

- Innovation & Creativity: How unique and original is the project, how has the team gone beyond the task, how have they made the project their own?
- Technical Implementation: Quality of code, cloud architecture, and data integration.
- Impact: Relevance to healthcare and the potential real-world impact, is their an minimal viable prototype available, how well does it address the use case.
- Presentation: Clarity of the project demo and documentation.
- Feasibility & Scalability: Can this project be scaled up and deployed in a real healthcare setting?
- X factor: Is there something that goes beyond the challenge to better address the use case?

Code Submission: All code must be uploaded and submitted via a version control platform (e.g., GitHub) by the deadline, Oct 11th 12:00 PM. Any updates or versions submitted after the deadline timestamp will be automatically disqualified.

Presentation/Demo: Teams must submit a brief project presentation or demo in video format (maximum of 5 minutes) explaining the problem, approach, solution, technology stack, and implementation feasibility . Upload the video to YouTube and ensure that appropriate permissions are set for access by the RUHealthHack (RUHealthhack@gmail.com) team.

Working Prototype: A functional prototype/software or proof of concept is required. It should demonstrate how cloud technologies and healthcare data are being utilized.

Documentation: Please complete the following document with all the requested information and send submit by 12:00 PM on Sunday, October 11, 2026.
